

Software Engineer (Houston, TX)

About omNovia Technologies

Founded in 2004 in Houston, omNovia has been one of the fastest growing technology companies in Texas since its inception. The omNovia Web Conference offers a 100% web-based solution capable of hosting up to 5,000 simultaneous participants in one virtual conference room with high quality audio, HD video, desktop sharing, file sharing etc. omNovia differentiates itself from competition by focusing on high quality and fully customizable web conferencing that provides a superior user experience.

Short Job Description

The ideal candidate will be a highly energetic self-starter with a solid programming skills and excellent communication. You should have strong research and analytical problem solving abilities with a desire to get to the root cause of an issue. In addition to independent work, you will regularly engage with other team members, including engineering, infrastructure, support technicians, sales and marketing.

Detailed Job Description

- Development – Engineer new applications and modify existing software applications and modules in accordance with written specifications and company/industry standards. Translate technical requirements into application code and modules
- Unit Testing - Perform tests on applications written by self and others, write additional unit tests for new functional requirements
- Collaboration - Interface with the Sales and Technical Team Leads to ensure the proper requirements are understood and being met. Interface with QA to ensure the application performs as, or better, than expected
- Project Management – Work on and manage multiple projects simultaneously. Participate in planning sessions to analyze development requirements and define scope. Aid in preparation of status updates for projects

Requirements:

- Bachelor's Degree in Information Technology or related field
- Minimum 4 years professional experience in C++, Java, Flex and/or Actionscript
- Experience with SQL language, and able to create and perform complex queries
- Experience with Linux based operating systems
- Thorough knowledge of networking and communications protocols
- Ability to thoroughly test code
- Ability to provide realistic timelines and to meet them

Benefits

- Health, Vision & Life Insurance
- Bonuses & Stock Options
- Paid Vacation
- Innovative team culture and very collaborative environment
- Advancement opportunities